

NJC Courses

Administrative Law: Advanced (JS 649)

Why should I take this course?

This course is designed to improve the skills of experienced administrative law judges and other agency adjudicators. The course provides an in-depth review of federal and state administrative law not covered in other administrative law courses. Special emphasis is placed on recent decisions and developments in administrative law.

What will I learn?

After this course, participants will be able to:

- Apply due process and other constitutional developments affecting administrative adjudication;
- Integrate recent evidentiary developments into your proceedings;
- Re-evaluate pre-hearing and post-hearing procedures in your court;
- Effectively examine your administrative hearings for implementation of ADR techniques;
- Fortify your decisions to survive judicial review; and
- Regulate the ethical behavior of counsel and presiding officers during administrative proceedings.

Who should attend?

This session is designed for administrative law judges and other agency adjudicators from federal, state, regional and local agencies who have more than three years experience. Those who complete the basic two-week Administrative Law: Fair Hearing course will benefit most from the course.

Who are the members of the faculty?

The Hon. Michael Morgan heads up this distinguished faculty of experienced ALJs, law professors, district court judges and other legal professionals who are intimately familiar with administrative proceedings.

How is this course taught?

Classroom presentations, team teaching and small group discussions are the primary instructional methods.

Does this course qualify for credits in the Judicial Studies degree program?

This course qualifies for 2 credits toward the Judicial Studies degree and as a requirement in the Certificate in Judicial Development, Administrative Law Adjudication Skills and the Dispute Resolution Skills programs.

What should I tell my presiding judge or funding agency so that my attendance will be approved?

Judging is a life long process. Formal training with recent developments in an advanced setting will serve to encourage judicial efficiency resulting in both economic and judicial economy in handling your caseload.

Whom should I contact for more information?

For more information, please contact the registrar's office at (800) 255-8343 or registrar@judges.org.

Judicial College Building/MS 358 • Reno, NV 89557 • (800) 25-JUDGE • www.judges.org

NJC Courses

Administrative Law: Advanced (JS 649)

Academic Dishonesty and Unprofessional Conduct

As professionals, we are held to high ethical standards. We expect you be responsible for your actions. We will not tolerate academic dishonesty, as defined in the Student Handbook and General Catalog. Your performance reflects not only on you, but also upon all other graduate students, faculty, and the University of Nevada. Accordingly, we will refer any suspected cases of cheating or plagiarism to Student Judicial Affairs. Any substantiated incident of cheating or other academic misconduct will result in your failing the assignment, the course, or both.

Statement of Disabled Access and Reasonable Accommodation

The Excellence in Teaching Program is committed to equal opportunity in education. This includes students with documented physical and learning disabilities. It is your responsibility to contact the instructor prior to the beginning of the course and provide documentation of your disability. We will make reasonable accommodation to ensure equity in grading, classroom experiences, and outside assignments. The staff of the Disability Resource Center must be present at any and all negotiations. The ETP staff will cooperate with all requirements mandated by the Disability Resource Center.

Judicial College Building/MS 358 • Reno, NV 89557 • (800) 25-JUDGE • www.judges.org